DGTrials and Pit Crew Racing Announce Marketing Agreement for 2005 Season

Atlanta, G.A. – March, 29 – DGTrials announced today that it would enter into a marketing agreement with Pit Crew Racing, making PCR the official communications systems and devices of DGTrials' 2005 season. All on-site communications at events will be done using Pit Crew Racing sourced equipment, from radios to headsets to cables.

"Motorsports require a high level of communication between staff members, volunteers, and facility management. We need to keep things running smoothly, and, more importantly, keep everyone safe," said DGTrials President/CEO Erik Jacobs. "Drifting involves high noise levels where ordinary over-the-counter handie-talkie FRS solutions just don't quite cut it. We are utilizing headsets and high-quality radios from Pit Crew Racing to make our on-site communications easier and more efficient."

DGTrials runs events at all types of facilities – parking lots, karting tracks, road courses, and more – and each presents unique communications requirements. Pit Crew Racing is able to provide a total on-site communications solutions for even the most demanding of these circumstances.
